CADUCEUS 1987

Indiana University School Of Medicine

INDY

Indianapolis was the back-drop for our educational experiences at Indiana University School of Medicine. Some of us had four years to experience the city, while others had only two. And for those who grew up here, it was simply "home."

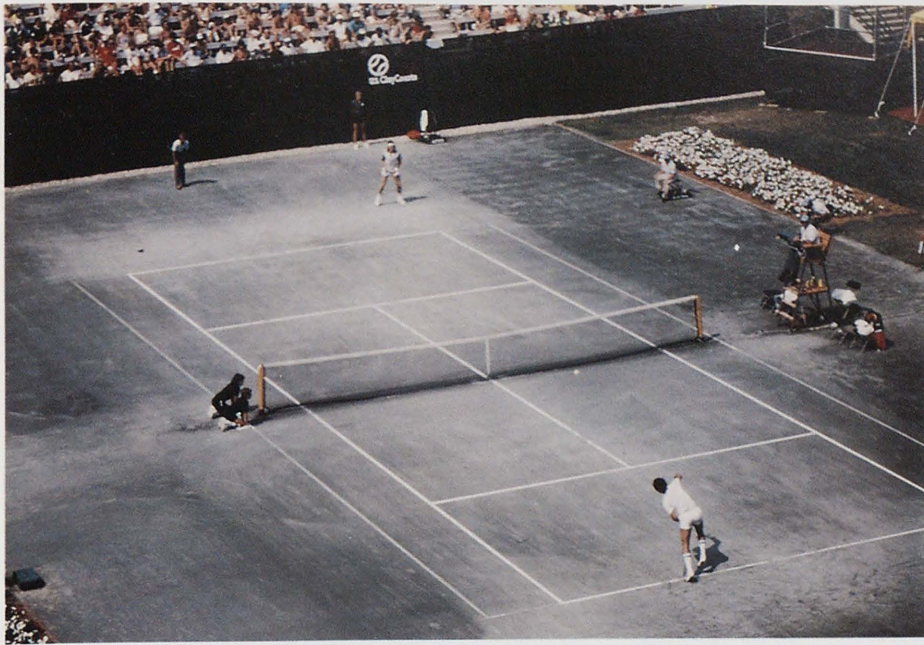

There is no doubt that the night spots were the most popular attractions. We needed places to vent the frustrations and hostilities that built up during those long days. The beginning years saw us in Broad Ripple and Castleton frequenting such spots as the "Vogue," "Rosa Carona's," "TGI Friday's," "The Corner Wine Bar," and "Pawnbrokers."

Although these spots were and are still popular, a new scene emerged that was a little closer to the medical center. The revitalization of the downtown area offered many new places to relax. Names that will "live in infamy" include, "Sports," "Ike & Jonesey's," "Shaboom's," the "Elbow Room," and "The Common Market."

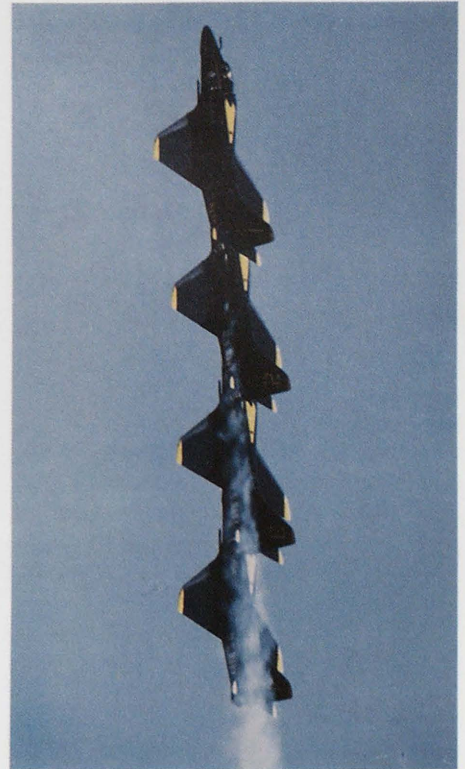

The new downtown also provided us with a multitude non-party places to spend our "free time." The opening of Union Station was probably one of the best things that could have happened.

IUMC

Ahh, the Med. Center! Over half of us were lucky enough to spend all four glorious years there, while the other half spent only two. Who could forget those nice, plush, comfortable chairs in MS 326? Many of us still sport scars from blisters acquired there from wiggling to find a comfortable position.

Those first few months were spent learning the other students' names that were next to you in the alphabet. Any hope of finding a spare moment of free time was quickly snuffed out by Micro and Biochem. We soon learned that Dr. Bauer did indeed create apathy! Anatomy, Histo, Physio, Neuroanatomy and the ever-popular Psych soon followed.

The philosophy of $P = MD$ was very prevalent. There were those who moved into MERP or Butler Library for the duration. Class notes made this way of studying very tempting. Intramurals added a great outlet for pent-up emotions.

Right: All work and no play makes Jack a very thin boy!! Below: Chief Complaint: "splitting headache!" Below Right: "I still wanna fly jets!"

Sophomore year saw a move to that bastion of comfort — Emerson Hall. The padded chairs were almost too much to take! The padding made it all the more difficult to remain awake through Pharmacology, Path, and Introduction to Medicine. The dog labs stirred up controversy between students and faculty and also between students themselves. We also got a peek at the wards — History-taking and Physical Diagnosis. Some took seeing real patients as a shock while others were naturals at it.

Junior year — need we say more? This offered all of us the opportunity to actually “care” for patients. The fields of Medicine, OB/GYN, Psych, Neuro, Peds, Surgery, and the Surgical Sub-specialties were all explored. To many students’ dismay, however, this occurred to varying degrees. For some it offered numerous rewarding experiences while for others it was a never-ending battle to keep their heads above water. “Fear of the peer,” as well as fear of the Resident and the Staff often got in the way of finding enough time to read and actually learn the art of medicine. We thought we had acquired enough knowledge on which to base our selection of senior electives and an eventual career.

Senior year was definitely a long-awaited relief from the first two years, and especially junior year! Some have likened it to finding an oasis in the Sahara. Most of us spent senior year finding out that we didn’t really want to do what we thought we did, or that we wanted some variation on a theme. The Dean’s Office was kept busy with change of elective forms. We finally began to believe that it was all worth it and prepared to go out and face the real world!

PARTY!

Our class is filled with such characters! There were few people in the Class of 1987 who found it difficult to have a good time. As we have said before, the night spots were always a good place to find members of the class. The Vogue was a frequented nightclub due to groups such as "Duke Tomato and his all-star frogs" and "The Henry Lee Summer Band." Let us not forget the infamous "Dr. Bop" who performed at many of the school dances much to the dismay of the owners of the establishments (i.e. Murat Shrine).

Class parties like the Halloween party were always big hits. The costumes were always unique and certainly never boring! The Christmas Dance was always well-attended, especially by "Dr. Bop!"

While many of us went elsewhere for entertainment, a few of us dared to be different. Late during our sophomore year, a new group made its appearance on the Indianapolis scene. Put together from the best talent from around this great country of ours, the Kluver-Bucey Band arose to stardom! The name was so perfect — a little-known psychiatric disorder that drove its victims to derive sexual pleasure from inanimate objects! Who will ever forget the heart-stopping beat of drummer Rick Robertson, the titilating keyboards of Jamal Hakim, the melodious guitars of Ben Begley, Joel Hoffman, and Dave Miller, and that canary voice of Tom Sevier?

SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

OFFICE OF THE DEAN
Fesler Hall 302
1120 South Drive
Indiana University Medical Center
Indianapolis, Indiana 46223
(317) 274-8157

TO THE CLASS OF 1987

The very best part of being Dean of this medical school is watching people develop. Your class is particularly important to me. You are the first ones I have watched as Dean throughout your entire experience here.

Each of you has achieved more than you might have thought possible. Each of you is now prepared to move on to your next level of development with confidence.

You have a great opportunity and responsibility to excel in whatever field of medicine you desire, and the future will need the best you can give — to patients, to each other and to society.

New physicians of this decade will have a chance and an obligation to guide society through more difficult choices than any other group of the past or perhaps the future. Consequently, do not hesitate to engage in the debates society will have. Your futures, the future course of the profession, and the future course of society depend upon the wisdom you will bring to the solution of the ethical issues facing us all — some known, some yet unknown.

You have worked hard; keep it up; it's worth the effort.

The School wishes you well, I wish you well. We look forward to our continued association and the guidance an involved alumni group can provide.

Best wishes for your future.

A handwritten signature in dark ink, appearing to read "Walter J. Daly". The signature is stylized with a large, sweeping flourish at the end.

Walter J. Daly, M.D.
Dean

Dear Colleagues,

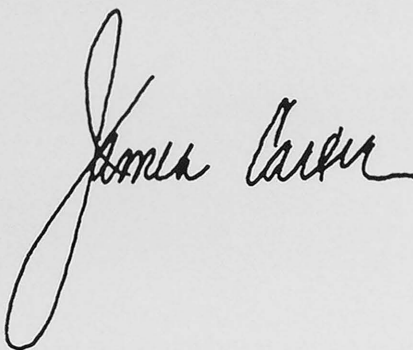

CONGRATULATIONS:

The event of medical school graduation is evidence to society of the competency and skill you have acquired to serve our fellow man. It acknowledges your discipline and ability to learn and to apply.

The inner sentiments of your sense of duty, service and Truth is important. It is to that spirit that I hope you will continually listen and be guided by!

God bless. Best wishes. Keep in touch.

Sincerely Yours,

A handwritten signature in cursive script, reading "James E. Carter". The signature is written in dark ink on a light background.

James E. Carter, M.D.
Associate Dean
Student and Curricular Affairs

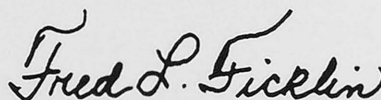

To: The Class of 1987

It has been said that being a physician is, at its best, intellectually challenging, emotionally rewarding, and socially esteemed. The development of a college graduate into a physician is one of the most exciting transformations a human being can experience. I am pleased to have had a small part in contributing to your transformation.

The exciting part of any profession is the transfer of skills, knowledge, and philosophy of life to the next generation. I encourage you to take this responsibility seriously so that the graduates over the intervening years will benefit from your education.

It has been my pleasure working with you and I wish you continued success in your learning and practice.

Sincerely,

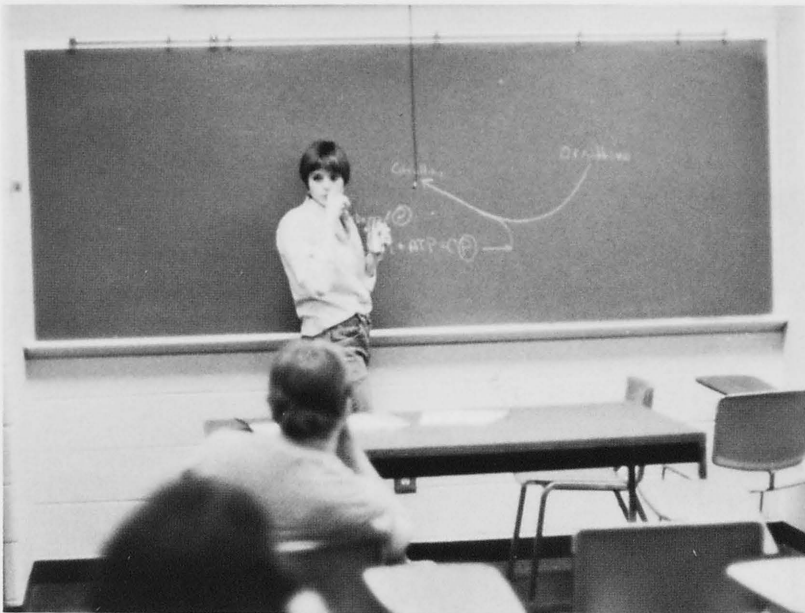

A handwritten signature in cursive script, reading "Fred L. Ficklin". The signature is written in dark ink on a light background.

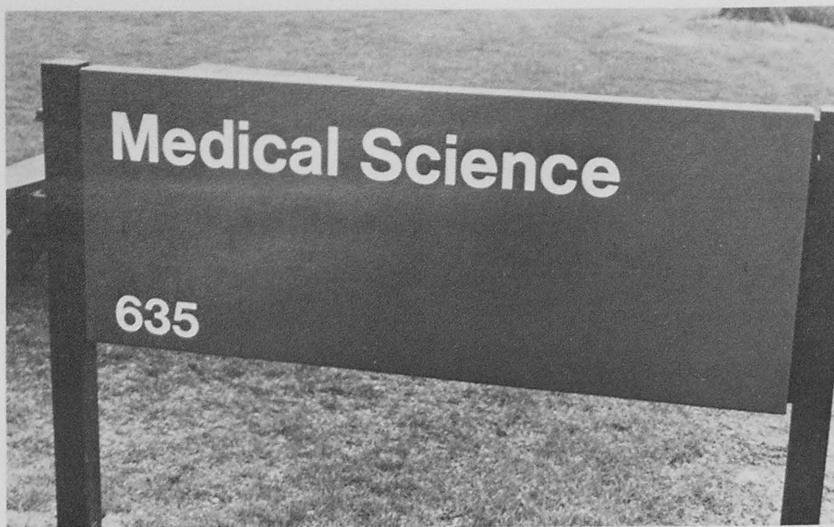

Fred L. Ficklin, Ed.D.
Assistant Dean

RICK'S PICKS

THE LAST SIP

It really wasn't that long ago that we sat crowded in the Med. Sci. lecture hall, room 326 hungrily awaiting, with pens in hand, for those first words of Biochem to be unleashed upon us. Residency was a lifetime away. Learning the volume of material that lay before us was so all-consuming that sometimes simply surviving precluded thinking about the future. And yet somehow, the future is now. Graduation now over, we have survived, and we have friends and memories that will last a lifetime. Doesn't it sort of amaze you to think of some of your friends as attending physicians in the next few years! So what can I say about wine that has anything to do with all of this?

One of my favorite wine experiences is the opportunity to enjoy a very old bottle of wine. For me it is like having a time machine; an opportunity to journey into the past and reflect on one's own life and the world and be amazed by all that has passed while the wine was laying there waiting to be consumed by you. This experience is denied to most of us because old wines are either unavailable or too expensive. As my final Rick's Picks, I'd like to encourage you, the reader, to buy a bottle of wine today to be consumed ten years from now to celebrate your tenth anniversary of graduation from medical school. You will not only have a rare, expensive and hopefully outstanding bottle of wine, but you will have the opportunity to journey back into your past. You will remember medical school, your friends, and all you have gone through in completing your residency and developing your new fruitful practice. I know ten years from now seems like forever, but so did graduation, remember?

The next question is, what to buy? Remember, most wines do not improve with age and if you buy the wrong wine, you can look forward to opening a bottle of brownish, oxidized vinegar, quite a reward for all your patience. I'll make a few recommendations of best bets that will most likely reward your ten-year wait. Plan on spending as much as $25.00 for the bottle (come on, you're a doctor now) because wines with longer aging potential tend to cost more.

My first choice would be the king of red wines — Cabernet Sauvignon. Almost any Cabernet from a top California producer will last ten years. Look especially at the Reserve Cabernets which last even longer. A few examples include: Caymus, Mondavi Regular & Reserve, Beringer Reserve, Inglenook Reserve, Sterling Reserve, Kenwood Artist Label, Chateau Montelena, BV Reserve, Clos du Val, and others. If you want French Cabernet, a good Bordeaux from the '81, '82, or '83 Vintage should hold well. Ask for help on this one, since it will be important to buy from a reliable Grand Cru Classe Vineyard. A petite chateau wine may not hold up. There is a Chateau Lynch Bages 1981 in town for $15-20 which should be a solid player.

The aging potential of Pinot Noir, Zinfandel and some of the big dry white wines like Chardonnay are well known, but there is a great variability between years and producers, so I don't recommend gambling with these.

You may prefer a sweet wine. The best of them have a great aging potential. Buy yourself a good Vintage Porto, a French Sauternes, or a sweet late harvest Riesling.

Of course there are many other possibilities, and endless special cases, but if you select one of the examples I have given, the odds of your being disappointed in ten years will be minimized.

The past four years, even with all of the pain, are four years I wouldn't trade for anything. I wish each of you happiness, good health, and success in all you do.

In Vino Veritas.

Becoming A Physician: Ideal Vs. Ordeal

By: Pamela Eva Fadul, M.D., Class of 1987

"I am pleased to inform you that the Committee on Admissions has voted to offer you a place in the freshman class of Indiana University School of Medicine . . ." I'm sure most of us remember the day we received our letter of acceptance into medical school — it was probably more memorable than what we were doing the day JFK was shot. It triggered many emotions — pride, relief, elation, eagerness to begin. Once classes started, though, many appeared subdued, apprehensive, and anxious. Why? The stressors inherent in medical education had begun to take effect. Would we be able to master the vast amount of data? How would we react to cadavers, to death? What would the competition be like among the nation's top two percent? How much in debt would we be after four years? Those and many other questions hovered both consciously and subconsciously. "Coping" and "surviving" would become of paramount importance. During the subsequent four years some students adapted, but many medical students across the nation became cynical, dejected, frightened, depressed, frustrated. Some flunked out or dropped out, the majority of whom were not academically incompetent but, rather, unable to cope with psychosocial and performance pressures.

What exactly do students find so stressful? What methods, both adaptive and maladaptive, do they use to cope with those stressors? What support systems do they (or would they like to) utilize? Is there a need for interventional programs? How do students' personalities and attitudes change during medical school? The paucity of recent research data in those and other similar areas prompted me to approach the late Dr. Nancy

Roeske with the idea for a "Well-Being Questionnaire." Together with Dr. Elizabeth Bowman and Ms. Donna Clair, we developed three questionnaires (one for medical students, one for house staff, and one for spouses/partners) and obtained permission from the IUPUI Committee on Protection of Human Subjects and the Executive Committee of the Medical School to distribute them on February 1, 1985.

A considerable amount of raw data have been generated from the 1,248 returned questionnaires. In addition, 387 spouses/partners completed questionnaires.

The data are being analyzed in several ways. The late Dr. Roeske wrote a paper entitled "A Study of Anxiety/Depression Symptoms and Adaptive Behaviors of Medical Students, House Staff, and Spouse/Partners," which was edited and submitted for publication by Dr. Hugh Hendrie, Ms. Clair, and Harry Brittain after Dr. Roeske's untimely death. Briefly, that paper concluded that a significantly higher proportion of women trainees reported symptoms of anxiety/depression than men trainees (41% compared to 27%). This difference between men and women was most marked during residency training the proportion of men reporting anxiety/depressive symptoms declined between medical school (33%) and residency (10%). No such decline occurred with women (medical students 42%, residents 37%). The year of training appeared to have relatively little effect on the occurrence of anxiety/depression symptoms for either medical students or house staff. Marriage appeared to confer some protection against symptoms of anxiety/depression for house staff but not for medical students.

The five major adaptive behaviors of anxious/depressed medical students and house staff, as reported in the paper cited above, are listed in Table 1. Coping mechanisms differed between men and women, with women demonstrating more support-seeking behavior, more excessive eating, more smoking, more seeing movies. Sexual activity was the only behavior reported more frequently by male medical students than females. A surprisingly high number of medical students (81,13% of the sample) and house staff (25,11% of the sample) reported having suicidal thoughts at least some of the time. Thirty-four percent of spouse/partners of medical students and 24% of spouse partners of house staff reported anxiety/depressive symptoms.

I have been analyzing students' responses to questions dealing with their major concerns, their perception of the medical center environment, their attitudes regarding faculty and physicians, and the changes in their personalities and plans during medical school. It is beyond the scope of this report to list and discuss all the results, but I will give you some of the highlights (complete results will be published at a later date).

Table 2 summarizes the results obtained when students were asked to indicate their degree of concern regarding 12 items ranging from academic and clinical pressures to personal areas. Understandably, academic/clinical pressures were of most concern to medical students. Over 50% were also very much concerned about the strain medical education places on personal relationships and family, and the problem of fatigue. Physical health, mental/emotional health, and a feeling of isolation also seemed to concern a great number of students. It is interesting to see how the year of medical school training affects students' major concerns. The perception of excessive competition, while only of major concern to 29% of all students, peaked in the sophomore year at 41%. The feeling of ambivalence about becoming a doctor peaked in the third year with 30% of juniors indicating they were very much concerned about it. Perceived lack of faculty support and psychological harassment/intimidation became more of a concern as students progressed in training, peaking in the senior year at 33% and 35% respectively.

Medical students' perceptions of the medical center environment were generally positive. Many students indicated that the climate was conducive to learning most of the time (59%), and that the program was responsive to the needs of women (52%) and minorities (47%). Of those who had obtained academic assistance (17% had strongly felt the need for assistance), 54% strongly recommended it to others. Nevertheless, 53% felt powerless to change the medical education process. Sixty-five percent of all students felt that it was very easy or easy to talk to other students about professional concerns; however, only 31% could talk easily to other students about personal concerns. As would be expected, many students indicated that they had inadequate time for reflecting on school and their personal lives (45%), and 48% rarely or never had adequate time for non-medical activities. In addition, 37% resented the demands of medical school which took them away from their families.

Responses to seven of the questions revealed some of the attitudes regarding faculty and physicians. Fifty-one percent of all students felt that the faculty were responsive to students' needs. In addition, 37% indicated that the faculty usually provide good role models. Nevertheless, the great majority of students said that they found it difficult to talk to faculty members about personal (83%) and professional (54%) concerns, and fully 44% did not feel that there was a faculty advocate to whom they could go to if they had a complaint about medical school. With regard to physicians in general, 45% answered that their premedical ideas about physicians have changed due to their experiences in medical school, and 29% said that their respect for physicians has actually decreased.

Many more topics need to be explored using the same data base. For example, it would perhaps be valuable to compare those who indicated that they were depressed or anxious much or most of the time with those who completed medical school and residency without signs of undue stress. Drug and alcohol abuse is another area of much interest. Information from the house staff and spouse/partner questionnaires would also be examined more thoroughly.

So, what have we gained so far from the Well-Being Questionnaire? First, and perhaps most important, I believe we have made an important effort to raise the consciousness of the students, residents, faculty, and significant others. Only after recognizing and defining the problem areas can we promote a psychologically and physically healthy way to approach and survive the rigors of such a demanding professional training program. Moreover, it is a well known fact that physicians have a much higher incidence than the general population of suicide, depression, drug abuse, drinking problems, and divorce. If we can promote well-being early in medical school, perhaps we can decrease the number of physicians who later become impaired. Finally, the results from the Well-Being Questionnaire are pertinent not only to Indiana University but to medical students, house staff, and medical educators throughout the nation. As you know, Indiana University is one of the largest medical schools in the United States and its demographic composition is very similar to that of the other medical schools.

I would like to thank all those who assisted me.

May 8, 1987

The Indiana Roof Ballroom
Indianapolis, Indiana

COMMENCEMENT!

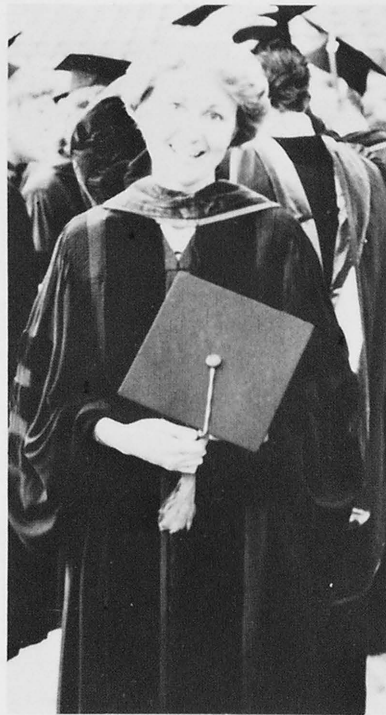

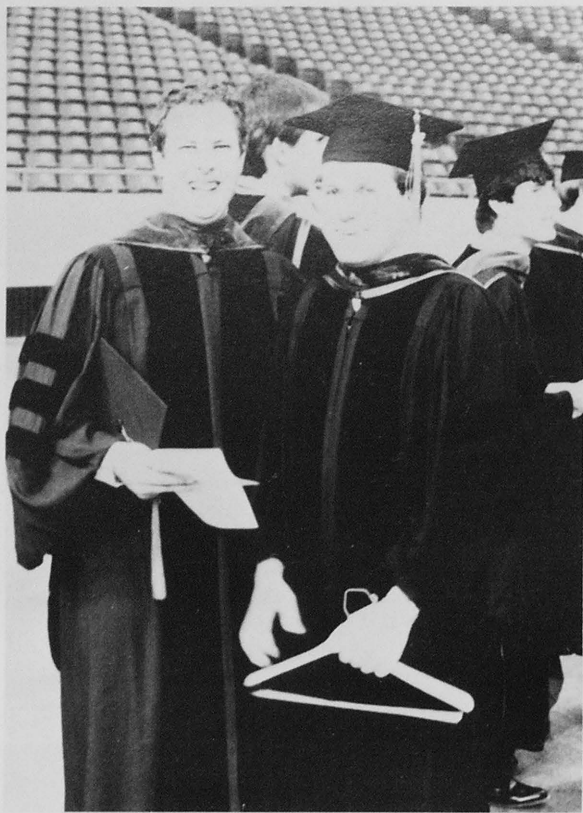

Clockwise from above: (1, 2) Ahh — the intimacy of the Hoosier Dome! (3) Jane Bridges looks for a place to attach Gunwant's tassel (4) Dave Brokaw — not quite sure where he is (5) The "Gang of 4" meet one last time (6) Bob & Scott are wishing the gowns came with instructions! (7) Hi Kriss!

Clockwise from bottom left: (1) Alan Weston has a final talk with Debbie Vernasco (2) Allison Donaldson with her mom, Dr. Diane Brashear (3) Dr. Dyken demonstrates his new karate skills (4) Dr. Madura puts those talented hands to work (5) Paris Roach — Thalidomide baby? (6) Drs. Girod, Edmondson & Harris (7) "Come see me in the ER sometime!"

Clockwise from above: (1) Gunwant gets more help from a fellow bearded-one (2) Pat Rankin & Paris Roach find the whole thing quite amusing (3) The crew files in (4) The start of a long wait (5) Where's Mom?!

Parent Messages

"Congratulations, Best Wishes and God bless you always in all ways"

Mom & Dad (Bridges)

"Here's looking at you, kid."

Mark

We as parents are exceptionally proud of you, our son, for your excellent academic achievement and firm dedication to your profession. We are confident that you will have great success as a neurosurgeon.

Mr. & Mrs. Frank Tomecek

May God bless and guide you always

Mr. & Mrs. Robert D. Troll

Phil, Congratulations!

Love, Mom, Dad, David, Jane, Chuck, Debbie, &
Stephen

Mark & Bob (Krause)

May God bless you always.

Love Mom (Gilligan)

"To heal is the noblest of endeavors." God be with you Jim

Your Family (the Rossiters)

Congratulations! May God bless you & guide you always.

Love, Mom & Dad (Joyner)

May God bless you with wisdom and be with you in all your future endeavors.

Mr. & Mrs. A.D. Bottles

"If you can imagine it, you can achieve it. If you can dream it, you can become it." — William Arthur Ward
With our love, pride and best wishes at this realization of your dreams.

Mother and Dad (Champion)

Trust in the Lord with all your heart and he will direct your path.

Mr. & Mrs. Hilton Hudson, Sr.

Here's to Good Genes, Guts, Grit, Gumption, Glamour, Grace and God!

Mr. & Mrs. Forrest R. Estes

Stephen — Congratulations, Good Luck, and God guide your way.

Dad, Mom and Kurt (Koewler)

You fill my heart with joy & pride, my son, my friend.
You make this world a better place.

Love, Mom (Mary Mandeville)

"The reward of a thing well done, is to have done it."

— Emerson

Dr. & Mrs. Gilbert Herod

Congratulations. Our Love Always.

May God be with you every day.

Mr. & Mrs. James W. Nein

May you always keep in mind the important things in life —

Friends, love, and happiness.

Mr. & Mrs. Leland Robertson

Our best to you for a successful residency and an enjoyable practice.

Mom & Dad (Asdell)

Throughout your career, your high regard for all people will undoubtedly be one of your greatest assets. Our love and congratulations.

Dad and Mom (Brazel)

With all you have accomplished, there is much to be done.

Your journey has just begun. May God continue to light your way. We congratulate you.

Mr. & Mrs. Pawlus

We are proud of you and may God be with you always.

Love, Mother and Dad (Patterson)

Congratulations and good luck Mike

Mr. & Mrs. David C. Smith

Finally! And your only 31.

Mr. & Mrs. Karl T. Reed

Teri, What a special privilege we have had to share your dreams and see them come true. "There will be only one of you for all time — fearlessly be yourself."
Love, Your Family (The Stantons)

As you look to a promising future, may you find the kind of success that will give you a life of value, fulfillment and happiness.
Dad & Mom (Hollensbe)

Best wishes always Mark. You make us very proud parents.
Dr. & Ms. O'Shaughnessy

Respect your patients and your patients will respect you.
Mr. & Mrs. James R. Miller

"For unto whomsoever much is given, of him shall be much required."
Luke, The Beloved Physician, 12:48
Mr. & Mrs. John L. Childes

This is a new beginning, we are thankful and proud.
All our love, Your Family, the Taylors and Gordons

Congratulations Michael from the whole family. You continue to be a source of pride to all of us.
With all our love, Mom and Dad (Malczewski)

Congratulations on your dream come true. Another step completed toward your goal in life.
Dr. & Mrs. Robert L. Marske

Barbie, always our Rx for joy!
Mr. & Mrs. Moorman (parents of Barb Schroeder)

Doctors prescribe; God cures.
The Ernstings

Nothing is beyond the reach of determination.
Mr. & Mrs. Daniel Guckien

Love you, Mom & Dad (Spitz)

Congratulations and God bless you.
Mr. & Mrs. John Kacedan

It was a long journey, you made it, we're proud.
Mr. & Mrs. George L. Thomas

You went and got it! Good job!
Mr. & Mrs. Joseph G. Tragesser

Congratulations, John! Our blessings and love for all you have been and all you will become.
Mom and Dad Roberts, Kim, Peggy and Judy

To Dan — You've worked so hard, now you're on the threshold —
Reach out to life and love, and "in everything, give thanks."
Mom & Dad (Dietel)

Memories of our love and confidence will guide you throughout your life.
Charlotte and Raul (Lopez)

"The basis of happiness is the love of something outside self." — W. Jordan
Mr. & Mrs. Gilbert Maupin

Why be a cheerleader when you can be quarterback?
Touchdown!
Mr. & Mrs. Krukonis (parents of Judy Rose)

May God guide your healing hands.

“I have a great family. I need a great doctor.”

ST. VINCENT PHYSICIAN REFERRAL SERVICE

Introducing the best way to choose a physician.

St. Vincent Hospitals have taken the guesswork out of finding a physician. It's more reliable than your neighbors' opinions and quicker than letting your fingers do the walking through page after page of unfamiliar names and addresses.

All you have to do is dial the St. Vincent Care Line. They can put you in contact with any type of physician including pediatricians, family practitioners, gynecologists and more. And just in case you or your loved ones need to be hospitalized, your physician will meet you at one of the St. Vincent Hospitals.

When your great family needs a great physician, call the St. Vincent Care Line.

BANKING THAT'S JUST WHAT THE DOCTOR ORDERED

Merchants Professional Banking Group, your private bank within the bank, is geared to facilitate the comprehensive banking needs of today's professionals.

Quick response to your credit needs is our specialty. Loan decisions can be made on a same-day or 24-hour basis. Most loans do not require committee review. When time is of the essence, this kind of credit availability can be critical to your success.

You'll deal with a banker who has a direct line to every area of expertise within the bank, from investment to trust services. We'll conduct business with complete confidentiality wherever and whenever it is convenient for you: over the phone; at your office or home; or in our privately appointed offices.

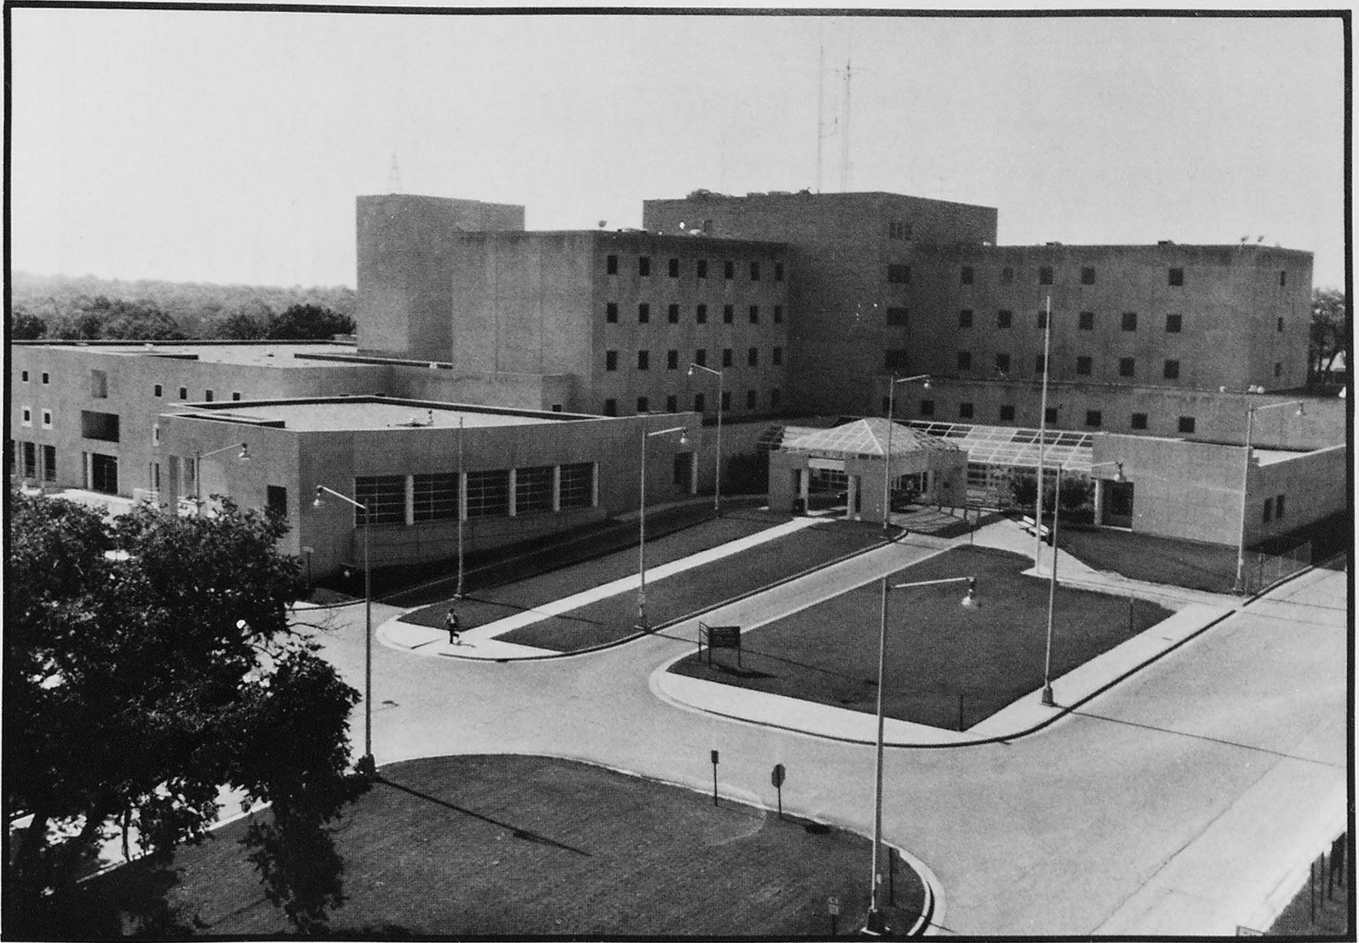

Get the personal service and responsiveness you need in handling your financial matters with Merchants Professional Banking Group. Give Jim Catton, Vice President, a call at 317-267-7039.

Multiple-choice student loans.

Student loans for students.

Indiana National Guaranteed Student Loans let you, with a co-signer, borrow up to $2625 per year for your Freshman and Sophomore years, and $4000 per year for your Junior and Senior years — up to $17,250 total — while completing undergraduate studies. If you're a graduate student, you may borrow up to $7500 a year, and up to $54,750 total, in undergraduate and graduate loans.

Your payments won't begin until six months after you cease or complete full-time studies.

Applying is easy. Guaranteed Student Loan applications are available at any Indiana National Financial Services Center. After an initial personal interview, the remaining process is handled by mail.

Parent loans for students.

The Parent Loan for Undergraduate Students (PLUS) allows you to borrow up to $4000 per year for a dependent undergraduate student.

The loan procedure is transacted by mail until the time of the loan closing, when the parent applicant comes to Indiana National's Tower Offices to complete the necessary forms and pick up the check.

Get your loan application by calling Judy Wilkins at (317) 266-6589. She'll be happy to help you find out which student loan choice is right for you.

What's new for professionals at Peoples Bank?

I'm glad you asked.

First of all, there's MBA — our unique, new financial planning and management program designed especially for professionals like you. There are our trust services including Personal Trusts, Corporate Trust and Agency Accounts and IRA's. There's our new Business Group that can provide your company or practice with Cash Management Services, Solid State Money Market Savings Accounts, and Accounting Services. For your personal needs, there are Saturday morning hours; our 24-hour, automatic-teller machines: ART; and three new branches close to suburban homes and offices in Castleton, College Park and Greenwood Place. And, there's our constant dedication to providing you with the best personal and professional services possible. But, of course, that's the only thing that isn't new. We've been doing that for 95 years.

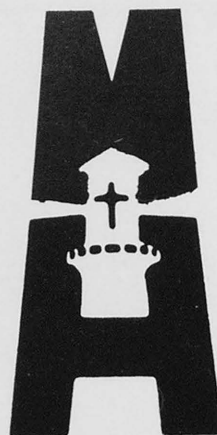

Peoples Bank. We're 95 years old and better than new.

The physician in private practice is special to us.

Humana®

Humana Women's Hospital
Township Line Road
Indianapolis, IN 46260

"We believe the physician in private practice is a very special person. We respect his immense dedication and admire his tireless efforts to provide his patients the very finest health care possible. We do our best, so that the private practitioner can do his best, secure in the knowledge that his hospitalized patients will receive the excellent care he deems essential. Our philosophy is to work in partnership with the physician in an atmosphere of complete cooperation and to complement his efforts to maintain the private practice of high quality medicine at a reasonable cost. The private practitioner and private hospital share a common goal. We're proud to be part of that partnership."

Congratulations Class Of 1987

There Would Be No One

- to speak for you at the legislature
- to represent you before Congress
- to stand up to HHS for you
- to work effectively with governmental programs
- to go to court for you
- to stand firm against NHI
- to fight for you in an insurance crisis
- to represent your views to the media
- to help medically educate the public
- to up-date you on medical news/issues
- to assure quality medical education
- to answer your questions
- to help with problems of third party carriers

... but you

You and your county, state and national medical societies, together as a team, can do all of the above effectively and in your best interest. Their purpose is to work only for you, the physician, who doesn't usually have sufficient time or knowledge needed to preserve, protect and insure the progress of high-quality, independent practice of medicine in today's complicated and rapidly changing world.

Your medical society team can provide you with a liaison with government, medical-legal consultation, lobbying in your best interests, concerted political action, insurance programs, news media relations, public information/education programs, membership publications to keep you informed, continuing medical education, and many other benefits.
